DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

2. Claims 1-4 and 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Bruning (6,339,314).

Bruning disclose a battery charger with low standby power dissipation in Figs. 1 and 2. Stopping a power supply to the transformer (30) when an output side of the current-to-voltage conversion circuit (10) in a no-load state (see col. 1, lines 62-66) and starting a power supply to the transformer when an external voltage is applied to the output side of the current-to-voltage conversion circuit (col. 1, line 67 to col. 2, line 2) wherein the external voltage is applied to the output side of the current-to-voltage conversion circuit in a deactivated state, by controlling ON and OFF states of a switching circuit (22) within an electronic apparatus to which the current-to-voltage conversion circuit is coupled an input section to input an input power (12, 14) a transformer to convert the input power into an output power (16, 18) an output section to output the output power, sensing circuit (104), threshold detector (112) and timing circuit (114).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 5-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 2/10/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Bruning reference does not disclose or suggest a starting a power supply to the transformer when an external voltage is applied to the output side of the current-to-voltage conversion circuit, see col. 1, line 67 to col. 2, line 2, a threshold detector is coupled to the triggerable electronic switch trigger the triggerable electronic switch when the voltage of the threshold detector reaches a predetermined value (i.e. an external voltage is applied to the conversion circuit). Applicant further argues that Bruning does not disclose or suggest stopping a supply of power to the transformer when the output side of the current-to-voltage conversion circuit is the no load or light load state. Applicant's attention is directed to col. 1, lines 62-67 which state that the when there is no load the power supply is shut off (stopped).

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
